DESIGN SOUTH FLORIDA

THE PURSUIT OF PERFECTION

Gil Walsh's approach to crafting magnificent interiors marries classic design and bold implementation.

Gil Walsh, owner and principal of Gil Walsh Interiors, was something of a free-range child, enchanted by the colors and shapes of the forests and fields around her rural Pennsylvania home. Those early, nature-based inspirations sparked a storied three-decade career in interior design, with over $200 million in projects. Today, Walsh is one of South Florida's most sought-after designers of luxury homes, businesses, and yachts.

"I believe in good, classical design in traditional, transitional, and contemporary styles, and I'm not afraid of color!" Walsh says. Florida's birds, plants, and seashore, she explains, provide a brilliant, ever-changing palette.

Gil Walsh Interiors' next-level service begins with the introductory client interview as Walsh and her extraordinary team ask vital questions and gain valuable insight about the function of spaces, desired color palette, style, and budget. The design process is a collaborative one, keeping the clients' needs front and center. Building rapport via communication, keeping one's integrity, and being transparent with the client, she says, is key.

"With an upbringing in theater, I approach design as if every room is a stage for life to play out," says Walsh. "Your home is a character in your story and sets the scene for all of life's moments."

The firm's Palm Beach design studio features a showroom and a world-class resource materials library where clients can see and touch thousands of fabric and color swatches, furniture and accessories, wall and floor coverings, and high-end architectural products.

What makes a room beautiful and a design successful? "It's subtle, but you know it when you enter the room and feel both comfortable and energized," explains Walsh. "The symmetry, the artful layering of fabrics and details, tells a story you just want to know more about."
